We champion the small producer, the local, the traditionally crafted, as well as more established brands that have proven to be consistently excellent. We only sell spirits we would happily drink. We don't carry everything, just the good stuff.

American whiskey is the fastest growing category in spirits at the moment. There's more whiskey by more producers than ever before, and some of it's great. On the flip side, a great deal of it is contracted whiskey that's underaged, poorly made and dressed up as old or authentic when it's neither. We've waded through hundreds of tastings and reams of persuasive marketing jargon to bring you these selections.

Para todo mal mezcal.
Para todo bien tambien.

The agave distillates produced in the mountains and valleys of rural Oaxaca are some of the most complex, delicious, and precious spirits on earth. We only carry mezcals made with care by traditional methods and bottled at a proof that allows them to maintain their essence and beauty. Available in copitas (.75oz), single sipper (1.5oz) or Ollita (3oz) for sharing. Pair with Sangrita? Just ask.

The only constant in Tequila is that it's always changing. We've selected some classics who've, thusfar, remained consistent. We've also selected some new-comers devoted to traditional production methods. For most brands we carry all three age statements: Blanco (aged 0-60 days), Reposado (aged 2-11+ months) and Anejo (aged 1-3 years).

Rum (Rhum is simply the french spelling and usually conotes Agricole) is a large and confusing category. Our criteria, oversimplified, is that it should be made well and smell like what it's made from, either sugarcane pressings (grassy) or molasses.

Selecting gin should be easy. It must be strong, The base notes should be of Juniper, the epistemological and botanical root of gin. The top notes should be distinctive and desirable. These are often of citrus or other exotic flora. To do all this turns out to be extremely difficult. We've chosen these first and foremost for their ability to live up to the above criteria.

Brandy is any spirit distilled from a base of fruit, alcohol and water. We carry brandies made from apples, pears, peaches and grapes. For the sake of simplicity we've listed them here by region rather than category. For more selections please see our Armagnac page in the Rare & Allocated section.

BLANTON'S 46.5°	[18]
This was arguably the bourbon that created the small batch category. For a long time you could get it anywhere and it was reasonably priced. Then about 2 years ago Sazerac decided to up the price and limit it to off-premis only, which meant we couldn't get it. Now it's back, but we can only buy one bottle a week, hence it's appearance here.

RUSSELL'S RESERVE BOURBON 51.1°	[50 per oz]
In 1998 when Wild Turkey launched the Russell's Reserve line extension the father and son team of Jimmy and Eddie Russell set aside some new whiskey in barrels to mark the occasion. Almost twenty years later they've bottled those barrels. This is bottle 190 of 2070, (our only bottle) non-chill filtered and extremely rare.

Scotch + World Whisky

It's always our goal to introduce you to high quality spirits from all over the world. While our usual selection of Scotch & World whiskys may be eclectic to some, these are vastly more so. All non-chill filtered, un-coloured (as they say in Scotland), many cask strength, all seldom seen around these parts.

LA NETA MEZCAL

Every batch of artisanal mezcal is one of a kind. Consistency is NOT the goal. These are bottlings from miniscule batches, brought to us by a passionate seeker of Mezcal. None of these have ever been seen outside of their remote villages.
